Galerie Jocelyn Wolff is thrilled to announce its participation in arteba 2024, one of Latin America's most significant contemporary art fairs. The fair will be held from August 28th till September 1st in Buenos Aires, Argentina, where the gallery will present a curated selection of works by renowned artists Diego Bianchi, Santiago de Paoli, Irene Kopelman, and Miriam Cahn.

Known for his immersive installations and sculptures that explore the intersections of urban environments and human experiences, Bianchi's works challenge viewers to engage with space and materiality in innovative ways. His pieces often incorporate found objects, transforming them into powerful statements on contemporary life.

A distinguished painter, de Paoli's work delves into the depths of human emotion and abstract expression. His paintings are characterized by their bold use of color and form, evoking a visceral response and inviting viewers to explore the subtleties of perception and emotion.

An artist deeply influenced by scientific exploration and natural phenomena, Kopelman's work often involves detailed studies and representations of the natural world. Her drawings and paintings capture the intricate beauty of nature, reflecting her commitment to observation and detail.

With a career spanning several decades, Cahn's art is noted for its intense emotional resonance and exploration of themes such as gender, identity, and the human body. Her expressive and often raw works on paper and canvas provoke thought and dialogue about the human condition.

Galerie Jocelyn Wolff is proud to bring these exceptional artists to arteba, showcasing a diverse range of contemporary art that reflects the gallery's commitment to innovative and thought-provoking works. Visitors to the fair can expect a dynamic presentation that highlights the unique voices and perspectives of these four artists.
